OWNERS

Abe and Irene Pollin

In their 45th season of ownership of the franchise, Irene and Abe Pollin hold the distinction of being the longest-tenured owners in the National Basketball Association. Since becoming owners in 1964, the Pollins have watched the NBA become the standard by which all other professional sports leagues are measured, as it exploded in growth from a small, regional league to a worldwide presence.

Irene and Abe Pollin have been at the center of some of the NBA's most historic events during their distinguished time at the helm of the Washington Bullets/Wizards. In 1978, they reached the pinnacle of the NBA when their Bullets, behind the play of Wes Unseld, Elvin Hayes and Bob Dandridge, defeated Seattle and brought a World Championship to Washington. In the summer of 1979, Pollin took his Bullets to Asia to lead the NBA's first ever venture into China, forging the way for the NBA to become a global entity.

As the majority owners of Washington Sports & Entertainment Limited Partnership, the Pollins oversee the operations of the Washington Wizards, Washington/Baltimore Ticketmaster and in-house promoter Musicentre Productions, as well as the management of Verizon Center and The George Mason University Patriot Center.

Thirty-five years ago, the Pollins opened the Capital Centre in Landover, Maryland, the new home for their Baltimore Bullets, and applied for a National Hockey League expansion franchise. The Capital Centre opened on December 2, 1973, and it was what Verizon Center is today – a state-of-the-art sports and entertainment facility that became the standard for new arenas throughout the world.

The Capital Centre, aptly named by Irene Pollin, was built in a record 15 months and boasted a plethora of unique features including electronic ticketing, one-of-a-kind luxury suite accommodations and the never-before-seen telescreen. It was the premier arena in its time, as it hosted a wide range of events from sports to concerts, and even presidential galas.

But as time and the sports and entertainment industry changed, the Pollins realized that their teams were no longer playing in the "best" facility in their respective leagues. In 1964, when the Pollins and two partners purchased the Baltimore Bullets, they had dreams that someday the team would play in a brand-new facility in the nation's capital. Once again, they seized the opportunity to make their dreams a reality.

After the long years of planning and building Verizon Center, the Pollins watched as their dreams came true on December 2, 1997, when a sellout crowd filled Verizon Center to watch the Wizards host the arena's first event versus the Seattle Supersonics. Since that time, the downtown Chinatown neighborhood has sprung to life with almost 26 million people having spun the turnstiles at Verizon Center to be a part of close to 2,200 concerts, family shows and world-class sporting events. The 2007-08 NBA season marked the 10th Anniversary of the opening of Verizon Center in downtown Washington; a milestone celebrated with a series of special community events and building accolades. Nominated for Arena of the Year for the first time by leading trade publication, Pollstar, Verizon Center also saw the installation of the first true indoor, high-definition, light emitting diode (LED) display scoreboard for an arena in the country, once again putting the building on the cutting edge of technology and ahead of the curve.

"I had two goals when I decided to build this building," said Abe Pollin. "The first was that if I was building in downtown Washington, the nation's capital, it had to be the best building of its kind in the country. The second was to be the catalyst that turned the city around."

In 1998, as the Wizards completed their first season at Verizon Center, the Pollins' WNBA franchise, the Washington Mystics, made history of their own. The Mystics made their Verizon Center debut on June 19, 1998 in front of 20,674 fans — the largest crowd ever to attend a women's professional basketball game in the United States. And while the Mystics' beginnings under the Pollins' guidance were historic in their own right, their purchase by Sheila Johnson and Lincoln Holdings was of similar significance. In May of 2005, the Pollins facilitated the sale of their Mystics to Sheila Johnson as the Mystics President and Managing Partner, and brought Johnson to Lincoln Holdings, a minority partner in Washington Sports & Entertainment. With Lincoln Holdings' stake in the NBA's

Wizards and the NHL's Capitals, Johnson became the first African-American woman to have ownership interest in three professional sports franchises.

While the sports industry is full of astute business professionals, what distinguishes Irene and Abe Pollin from their peers is their commitment to social responsibility. They share a passionate need to give back to the community and have made helping people a way of life. Their philanthropic and humanitarian endeavors know no bias or boundaries, which is evident by the numerous public service and community organizations to which they selflessly devote enormous time and energy.

Abe Pollin serves as the Chairman of the Advisory Council, is Honorable Chairman of the Salvation Army's Leadership Committee for Centers of Hope and Co-Chair of the Community Capital Campaign for N Street Village in the District. He is also the co-sponsor of the "I Have a Dream Foundation" and he personally guaranteed a college education for 55 students. Recent philanthropic endeavors of the Pollins have included the re-launch of the Abe's Table program to feed the underserved in the DC community and financial sponsorship of Gilbert Arenas' Gilbert Scores for Schools program, through which the Pollins donated $100 for every point that Arenas scored in select Wizards games during the 2006-07 and 2007-08 seasons to a different Washington area school each game (a donation that exceeded $300,000 last season alone). Most recently, in August of 2008, the Pollins donated $1,000,000 to the Society for Progressive Supranuclear Palsy - CUREPSP - to establish a fund to support research in corticobasal degeneration (CBD) and to find the cause and cure for the rare neurological disease, a disease which Mr. Pollin was diagnosed with several years ago.

"I grew up in a house where both of my parents were very much involved in helping others," said Pollin. "My philosophy is that those of us who are on the giving end rather than the receiving end are very lucky."

Not surprisingly, recognition of the Pollins' accomplishments are just as impressive as the deeds they acknowledge. The recent years have been landmark ones for Pollin, as he has received numerous awards and accolades recognizing his accomplishments in professional sports and contributions to community service.

Pollin was awarded the Duke Ziebert Capital Achievement Award for his efforts in revitalizing downtown Washington, DC. He has also been the recipient of the Distinguished Civilian Service Award, presented by the US Army, the 1996 Robert F. Kennedy-Martin Luther King, Jr. Award, presented by Coalition to Stop Gun Violence, the 1996 United Cerebral Palsy Achievement Award and the 1997 Jewish Leadership Award. In 2006, Pollin was honored for his contributions to the world of sports and his community when the United States Sports Academy tabbed him for their Distinguished Service Award. On December 3, 2007, Mayor Adrian M. Fenty proclaimed "Abe Pollin Day" in the District of Columbia in honor of Abe Pollin's 84th birthday and all of his contributions to the city. In addition to proclaiming Abe Pollin Day, the Mayor unveiled F Street between 6th and 7th Streets NW as "Abe Pollin Way."

As if the years of experience with the Bullets/Wizards, Capital Centre and Verizon Center were not challenging enough, Irene Pollin is a noted health care professional with over 28 years of experience in the field. In 1976, she created the first Medical Crisis Counseling Center developed to treat patients and families coping with chronic illness. Since then, she has developed Medical Crisis Counseling Centers at Washington Hospital Center as well as additional facilities in surrounding communities.

Irene Pollin has forged a dynamic reputation as a psychiatric social worker and lecturer in the department of psychiatry at Harvard University. As president and founder of the Linda and Kenneth Pollin Foundation, she serves on a number of national advisory boards and commissions in fields of both mental and women's health, and is the founder and chairperson of the Sister to Sister — Everyone Has a Heart Foundation, an organization whose aim is to increase women's awareness of heart disease and provide free cardiac screenings.

In addition to lecturing in the academic community, Mrs. Pollin has been a guest on national and local broadcast shows including the Today show, Nightline with Ted Koppel, Good Day New York, National Public Radio and USA Today Sports Radio. She also has published numerous articles and is the author of two books, Medical Crisis Counseling — Short-Term Therapy for Long-Term Illness and Taking Charge — Overcoming the Challenges of Long-Term Illness.

She has served as a board member of numerous organizations such as the American Cancer Society, Smithsonian Institution, Cystic Fibrosis Foundation, National Kidney Foundation, the Multiple Sclerosis Society, the Society for Women's Health Research, National Cancer Institute, National Rehabilitation Hospital, the National Institute of Mental Health, the U.S. Committee for the Washington, DC United Nations Fund for Women, the National Institutes for Health Foundation and the Office of Women's Health at NIH. Outside of the health field, Irene Pollin has served on the board for the National Symphony Orchestra and the Washington Opera. In addition, she has given back to her alma mater by serving on the Board of American University (for 11 years), the American University Executive Committee and the Development Committee at American University, and being the guiding force behind the development of the new American University Library. In the spring of 2007, Irene Pollin received an honorary doctorate degree from Howard University.

Irene and Abe Pollin together established the Pollin Prize for Pediatric Research, administered annually by New York Presbyterian Hospital. The first Pollin Prize was awarded on November 15, 2002, to four international scientists for their work in Oral Dehydration Therapy, hailed as the most important medical discovery of the 20th century.

Abe Pollin moved with his family to the Washington area from Philadelphia when he was eight. He graduated from The George Washington University in 1945 and went to work for his family's construction company for 12 years. Irene Pollin, a native of St. Louis, received a Bachelor's Degree from American University, and then earned a Master's Degree in Social Work from Catholic University. In 1957, the Pollins launched their own construction company and, as a local contractor, built several large apartment houses and office buildings, one of which featured the first-ever rooftop pool in Washington.

The Pollins enjoy spending time with their children and grandchildren. Robert, the elder of the Pollins' two sons, lives in Amherst, MA, with his wife Sigrid, where they are both professors at the University of Massachusetts. Robert, an economics professor, and Sigrid, an architect, have two daughters, Emma and Hannah. The Pollins' younger son, James, is the President of The Pollin Group/MedEdatSea, a travel business specializing in cruises. Irene and Abe Pollin reside in Bethesda, Maryland.

On December 3, 2007, Mayor Adrian M. Fenty proclaimed "Abe Pollin Day" in the District of Columbia in honor of Abe Pollin's 84th birthday and all of his contributions to the city. In addition to proclaiming Abe Pollin Day, the Mayor unveiled F Street between 6th and 7th Streets NW as "Abe Pollin Way." Pictured here with the Pollins are Mayor Fenty, sons Robert and Jimmy Pollin, DC Ward 2 Councilmember Jack Evans, Ward 5 Councilmember Harry Thomas Jr, and Councilmember at large Kwame Brown.

Ernie Grunfeld

Widely regarded as one of the top executives in the National Basketball Association, Ernie Grunfeld is in his sixth season with the Washington Wizards. Grunfeld joined the organization on June 30, 2003, and in just his second year in Washington, with a roster that was largely assembled under his guidance, the Wizards won a playoff series for the first time in over two decades in 2004-05. As Washington made its fourth consecutive playoff appearance in 2007-08, Grunfeld's Wizards have reached an organizational goal of becoming perennial playoff contenders, and joined the Detroit Pistons as the only two teams in the Eastern Conference that have been to the playoffs in each of the last four seasons. Grunfeld and the Wizards now aim to take the next step towards becoming a perennial power in the Eastern Conference and in the NBA.

Grunfeld triggered Washington's ascent to the upper echelon of the Eastern Conference with the acquisition of a trio of talented performers in Gilbert Arenas, Antawn Jamison and Caron Butler, all of whom blossomed into multi-time All-Stars in Washington. Arenas was initially signed as a restricted free agent out of Golden State in 2003, and later re-signed as an unrestricted free agent in the summer of 2008, while Jamison and Butler were acquired via trades with the Dallas Mavericks in 2004 and the Los Angeles Lakers in 2005, respectively, and were both later signed to long-term contract extensions.

Meanwhile, Grunfeld bolstered the Wizards' foundation by adding toughness and experience to an established core. With DeShawn Stevenson, Brendan Haywood, Antonio Daniels, Darius Songaila and Etan Thomas, Grunfeld built a versatile veteran rotation that melds well with his draftees; Andray Blatche (49th overall in 2005), Oleksiy Pecherov (18th in 2006), Nick Young (16th in 2007), Dominic McGuire (47th in 2007) and JaVale McGee (18th in 2008).

Grunfeld's long list of accomplishments as one of the league's elite general managers includes two trips to the NBA Finals, four Eastern Conference Finals appearances and 16 playoff berths, including 11 straight from 1991-2001 with the New York Knicks and Milwaukee Bucks. With 30 years of NBA experience as a player, broadcaster, coach and executive, Grunfeld's vision and leadership have been paramount to the Wizards' success.

In the process of building a contender in the Eastern Conference, Grunfeld's attention to detail resulted in the renovating and upgrading of the team's facilities at Verizon Center. The major overhaul included the interior and exterior of the team's locker room and the basketball operations and coaching offices.

"Everything he has done has been with the focus of making us a playoff contender for years to come," said Wizards Chairman Abe Pollin. "Some moves have shown immediate returns and others are made with an eye towards the future. That's the mark of a good manager."

Prior to joining the Wizards, Grunfeld spent the previous four seasons as General Manager of the Milwaukee Bucks, where the team's 14 playoff wins during his tenure exceeded its cumulative total in the 12 seasons prior to his arrival. During his tenure, the Bucks posted a record of 177-151 (.540) and qualified for the playoffs three times. Included in the Bucks run of playoff success was a trip to the 2001 Eastern Conference Finals, where they pushed Philadelphia to a deciding Game 7.

Grunfeld solidified his reputation as a top talent evaluator with a series of second round picks that helped build the Bucks' roster. Grunfeld's penchant for finding talent in the second round began when he selected Michael Redd with the 43rd overall pick in 2000, and has since watched Redd blossom into an All-Star performer. Grunfeld has also tabbed Jason Hart (2000), Ronald Murray (2002), and more recently Andray Blatche (2005) and Dominic McGuire (2007) in the second round of the NBA Draft to stake his claim as a premier draft day executive.

During Grunfeld's reign as the Knicks' top personnel executive, New York advanced to the Conference Semifinals of the NBA Playoffs for nine consecutive seasons (1991-99). His tenure included five 50-plus win seasons, three Atlantic Division Championships and two trips to the NBA Finals. In eight full seasons of decision making for New York, Grunfeld's Knicks teams compiled a record of 397-227 (.636) in the regular season and a 61-44 mark in the playoffs.

Grunfeld was named General Manager of the New York Knicks on April 23, 1991 and was later promoted to President and General Manager on February 23, 1996. His tenure in New York was punctuated by Eastern Conference Championships in 1994 and '99, the latter of which marked the first time in NBA history that an eighth seed advanced to the Finals. Remarkably, after Patrick Ewing was felled by injury, the '99 Finals squad featured an entirely different starting five than the previous Eastern Conference Champion Knickerbockers just five years earlier.

With Grunfeld's vision, the mid-'90's Knicks completely rebuilt and reloaded to an elite level without missing a beat. Highlighted by trades for Latrell Sprewell and Marcus Camby, as well as the signing of free agent Kurt Thomas, Grunfeld's moves helped catapult the Knicks to the Finals in '99. Three years earlier, Grunfeld acquired both Larry Johnson and Allan Houston on the same day in '96, solidifying his reputation as an astute decision maker. Under Grunfeld's guidance, the Knicks played in front of a sold-out Madison Square Garden from 1993-99.

Now in his 19th season as a top personnel executive in the NBA, Grunfeld has enjoyed 17 seasons of at least .500 basketball, and the 2007-08 Wizards marked Grunfeld's 16th playoff team on three different franchises that have experienced the postseason on his watch.

Originally drafted by Milwaukee with the 11th overall selection in 1977, Grunfeld played in the NBA for nine seasons. After two seasons in Milwaukee, he played for the Kansas City Kings from 1979-82 before signing with the Knicks as a free agent in 1982. Grunfeld retired following the 1985-86 season with a career average of 7.4 points per game in 693 career games played.

Following his playing career, Grunfeld served as the Knicks radio analyst for the MSG Network from 1986-89. Prior to the 1989-90 season, he served as an assistant coach for the Knicks under Stu Jackson before his promotion to the front office.

Born in Romania, Grunfeld came to New York City in 1964 with his father, Alex and mother, Livia. He enjoyed a stellar collegiate career at the University of Tennessee, where he left as the school's all-time leading scorer with 2,249 points, and later had his uniform number 22 retired by the university. He teamed with Bernard King at Tennessee to form the "Ernie and Bernie Show" and later played with King in New York. Grunfeld was a member of the 1976 Olympic Team that won gold in Montreal.

Upon his arrival in Washington DC, Grunfeld was quick to establish himself as an active member of the community in the nation's capital. His participation in the organization's community outreach programs, including Thanksgiving luncheons, Holiday gift deliveries, and charitable bowling tournaments helped set an example of excellence for the Wizards and the community.

In May of 2005, Grunfeld was named by USA Basketball to a panel of nine basketball executives that will advise the United States' men's senior national program on matters including coaches and players selection.

Grunfeld and his wife, Nancy, have two children, Rebecca Grunfeld, a 2007 graduate of Georgetown Law School who is now a second-year associate at the law firm of Kaye Scholer in Washington, DC, and Danny, a former First-Team Academic All-American from Stanford University, who now plays professional basketball in Europe.

HEAD COACH

Eddie Jordan

The 2008-09 campaign marks Eddie Jordan's sixth season at the helm in Washington, and the Washington, DC product continues to make his homecoming a special one. Born and raised in Washington, Jordan returned to DC prior to the 2003-04 season, and in just his second season with the Wizards in 2004-05, Jordan guided the team to its first Playoff appearance in eight years and its first postseason series win since 1982. In the follow-up season in 2005-06, the Wizards finished the regular season at 42-40, as Jordan, the NBA Eastern Conference's longest tenured Head Coach, took the franchise to the playoffs once again. In 2006-07 – a season that saw Jordan and staff earn the right to lead the Eastern Conference All-Star team at All-Star Weekend in Las Vegas -- Jordan led the Wizards to the playoffs yet again. The 2007-08 campaign, however, was quite possibly Jordan's finest, as the Coach of the Year candidate became Washington's first Head Coach since Dick Motta from 1976-80 to helm four consecutive playoff teams in Washington.

Signed to an extension during the summer of 2006, Jordan's influence on his young and talented team is evident. Now trailing only Utah's Jerry Sloan and San Antonio's Gregg Popovich among the longest tenured coaches in the NBA, Jordan has presided over Gilbert Arenas and Antawn Jamison being selected to the All-Star team for the first time in their careers in 2005, guided Arenas to three consecutive All-NBA seasons in 2005, 2006 and 2007, and steered Caron Butler to his first career All-Star game in 2007. When Butler made a repeat visit to the All-Star game in 2007-08 with Jamison, for the third time in four seasons, Jordan saw his Wizards represented by a pair of All-Stars at the mid-season showcase.

As he closes in on 200 wins as Head Coach of the Washington Wizards, Jordan recently passed Dick Motta (185) for third place on Washington's win list, with his sights now set only on the legendary likes of Gene Shue (522 wins) and Wes Unseld (202).

Among Jordan's highlights in Washington, the Wizards enjoyed the franchise's best season since 1978-79 in 2004-05, established a new record for wins in a season at Verizon Center in that same season, earned the fifth seed in the Eastern Conference in consecutive years in 2004-05 and 2005-06, and in 2006-07, the Wizards held the best record in the Eastern Conference as late as February 1, sending Jordan and his assistants to the All-Star game. In 2007-08, after an injury-marred struggle at the beginning of the season led Washington to a 0-5 start, the Wizards became just the 13th team in NBA history to rally from a 0-5 start to make the playoffs, as Washington earned the fifth seed in the Eastern Conference.

After compiling a 25-57 record in his first season in Washington, Jordan guided the Wizards to a 20-game improvement in 2004-05. The 2004-05 season was highlighted by the Wizards' series win against the Chicago Bulls in the first round of the NBA playoffs; a series in which Jordan's Wizards rallied from a 0-2 deficit to take the series with four consecutive wins.

Jordan was introduced as Head Coach of the Washington Wizards on June 19, 2003 after serving as the lead assistant of the New Jersey Nets for the previous four seasons. With Jordan's tutelage and offensive system, the Nets won consecutive Atlantic Division and Eastern Conference Championships in 2002 and 2003.

Jordan joined the Nets coaching staff on March 17, 1999. Prior to his arrival in New Jersey, Jordan spent the 1997-98 campaign and the final 15 games of the 1996-97 season as head coach of the Sacramento Kings, where he compiled a 33-64 record. He was an assistant coach with the Kings for five seasons before being named head coach on March 20, 1997.

After retiring from the NBA in 1984, Jordan was a volunteer assistant at Rutgers University under his former college head coach, and former Wizards' assistant, Tom Young. Jordan followed Young to Old Dominion as a part-time assistant before landing an assistant coaching position at Boston College under Jim O'Brien in 1986, and at his alma mater in 1988.

Originally selected by the Cleveland Cavaliers in the second round of the 1977 NBA Draft (33rd overall), Jordan was acquired by New Jersey midway through his rookie year. As a New Jersey Net, Jordan led the league in total steals in 1978-79 and was second in total steals in 1979-80.

Jordan joined the Los Angeles Lakers during the 1980-81 campaign, where he subsequently played four seasons, and was a member of the 1982 NBA World Championship squad. He also played briefly with the Portland Trail

Blazers before concluding his professional career after the 1983-84 season. In his seven-year career, Jordan averaged 8.1 points, 3.8 assists and 1.82 steals per game.

As a collegian, Jordan led Rutgers to the 1976 NCAA Final Four in his Junior year, and was named East Regional MVP. In his senior season, he was named honorable mention All-America, while setting Rutgers all-time career records in assists (585) and steals (220). Jordan graduated from Rutgers in 1977 with a degree in health and physical education.

Jordan was born in Washington, DC and is a 1973 graduate of Archbishop Carroll High School where he enjoyed a standout basketball and football career.

Eddie and his wife, Charrisse, have two children, a son, Jaxson (10), and daughter, Skylar (8). Eddie also has three sons, Justin, a graduate of New York School of the Arts; Eddie II, who followed in his father's footsteps at Rutgers University, where he played football; and Paul, who resides in DC. Eddie II graduated from Rutgers in May, 2005 and is currently attending his alma mater for graduate school. Charrisse Jordan was recently appointed as President of "Behind the Bench", a non-profit organization developed by the National Basketball Wives Association, which raises funds and awareness for charities that benefit women and children.

"Eddie was one of the smartest players that I have ever coached. He knew every single position on the court. He picked up everything very quickly and played the game as an extension of the Head Coach. He was one of the few players that I have ever coached that I knew, if he wanted to, could be a Head Coach."

COACHING STAFF

Mike O'Koren
Associate Head Coach

Mike O'Koren is in his sixth season with the Washington Wizards, and Washington's Associate Head Coach and former North Carolina All-American continues to add to an impressive resume of success at the coaching ranks. O'Koren joined the Wizards staff after serving as an assistant coach with the New Jersey Nets from 1999-2003 where he helped guide the Nets to back-to-back Atlantic Division and Eastern Conference Championships in 2002 and 2003. Now, as the Wizards have advanced to the NBA Playoffs for the fourth consecutive season – a feat last accomplished by the franchise 19 years ago – O'Koren and the Wizards are fresh off another winning season that makes them one of just two Eastern Conference teams to have qualified for the playoffs in each of the last four campaigns.

O'Koren is an invaluable member of a coaching staff that helped Gilbert Arenas and Antawn Jamison become first-time All-Stars in 2005, saw Arenas become a three-time All-Star and All-NBA performer in 2005, 2006 and 2007, coached Caron Butler as an Eastern Conference assistant in Butler's first career All-Star appearance alongside Arenas in '07 – and watched as Butler and Jamison represented the Wizards as All-Stars once again in '08.

"He is a player's coach," said Antawn Jamison. "He knows how to get the best out of his players. He has confidence in himself, and we have confidence in him. He's a natural and all of the guys have respect for him."

After a standout college career at North Carolina where he was a three-time All-American and a four-year starter, O'Koren was drafted by the Nets with the sixth overall selection in the 1980 NBA Draft. He averaged 8.5 points in his seven NBA seasons with the Nets and enjoyed his best season during the 1981-82 campaign when he averaged a career-high 11.4 points per game. O'Koren played briefly with the Washington Bullets during the 1986-87 season, and appeared in 15 games for the franchise that he now helps coach.

An avid participant in community activities, O'Koren is a fixture at Wizards' community relations endeavors. O'Koren and his wife, Angela, have a daughter, Chelsea.

Phil Hubbard
Assistant Coach

Phil Hubbard is in his sixth season as an assistant in Washington, and is a key member of a staff that ranks as the longest tenured unit in the Eastern Conference. Hubbard has helped the Wizards reach the playoffs in four consecutive seasons for the first time since 1983-88, and during his tenure in Washington, has played a vital role in the development of Gilbert Arenas, Caron Butler and Antawn Jamison into All-Star performers. Having served as an assistant for the Eastern Conference All-Star team in 2007, and having previously worked as an assistant in Atlanta and Golden State, Hubbard's long career in the NBA has him amongst the most well-known assistants in league circles. During Hubbard's time with the Hawks, he helped coach Lenny Wilkens become the winningest coach in NBA history, and while with the Warriors, he coached a young Gilbert Arenas, who he now has a relationship with that dates back to 2001.

Hubbard played in the NBA for 10 seasons with the Detroit Pistons and Cleveland Cavaliers and averaged 10.9 points per game during his career. He averaged a career-high 15.8 points per game with Cleveland during the 1984-85 season.

A graduate of the University of Michigan with a degree in education, Hubbard enjoyed a standout collegiate career. He led the Wolverines run to the 1976 NCAA Championship Game, and remains as only one of four Michigan players to have his number (35) retired. He was also a member of the United States 1976 Olympic Basketball team that won the gold medal in Montreal, and in the summer of 2008, was inducted into his home state of Ohio's Hall of Fame.

He and his wife, Jackie, are the parents of two children – a daughter, Whitney, and son, Maurice, a freshman on the Ball State University basketball team.

Randy Ayers
Assistant Coach

After his hire as an Assistant Coach on Head Coach Eddie Jordan's staff on June 24, 2007, Randy Ayers is in his second season with the Wizards. In Washington, after the Wizards allowed the opposition to score 104.9 points per game in 2006-07, under Ayers' direction in 2007-08 that number was cut dramatically to 99.2 ppg, marking the second biggest improvement in the NBA last season behind only the Boston Celtics.

Previously, Ayers spent two seasons as an assistant coach with the Orlando Magic, where he helped Orlando reach the NBA Playoffs in 2007 with the league's seventh ranked defensive unit. Having joined the Magic as an assistant coach on June 10, 2005, Ayers saw the Magic cut the opposition's scoring from 101.8 points per game in the season prior to his hire, to 96.0 ppg in his first season in Orlando and 94.0 ppg in his second season in Orlando.

Prior to his hire in Orlando, Ayers spent six-plus seasons as a member of the Philadelphia 76ers' coaching staff, including a stint as Head Coach of the Sixers in 2003-04 (21-31, .404). As the top assistant under Head Coach Larry Brown, Ayers helped guide the 76ers to five consecutive playoff appearances, including a trip to the NBA Finals in 2001.

Ayers coaching career also includes an eight-season stint as head coach at The Ohio State University, where he led the Buckeyes to four post-season appearances, back-to-back Big Ten Championships in 1991 and 1992, and an overall record of 124-108 (.534). In 1991, he was named National Coach of the Year by both The Associated Press and Black Coaches Association. He also spent six years as an assistant coach at Ohio State, including three years under current Maryland Head Coach Gary Williams, in addition to serving two years as an assistant coach at the U.S. Military Academy, and two years as a graduate assistant at his alma mater, Miami University in Oxford, Ohio. Ayers has also been involved with USA Basketball, and has participated in the NBA's Basketball Without Borders program.

Ayers and his wife, Carol, have two sons, Ryan (22), a student-athlete at Notre Dame, and Cameron (17).

2007-08 TEAM NOTES

PERENNIAL PLAYOFF PARTICIPANTS: Immediately upon their hires in Washington, Wizards President of Basketball Operations Ernie Grunfeld and Head Coach Eddie Jordan identified a goal of becoming "perennial playoff contenders". Mission accomplished. As the Eastern Conference's 5th seed in the 2008 NBA Playoffs, the Wizards made their fourth consecutive playoff appearance. Previously, Washington had not advanced to postseason play in four consecutive seasons since qualifying for five straight playoffs from 1983-88. The Wizards joined the Detroit Pistons as the only two Eastern Conference teams to qualify for postseason play in each of the last four seasons.

ERNIE AND EDDIE: Hired within weeks of each other in June of 2003 — Eddie on the 19th, Ernie on the 30th — Wizards President Ernie Grunfeld and Head Coach Eddie Jordan have helped Wizards Chairman Abe Pollin usher in a new era of Washington basketball. Under their watch in DC, Washington made four straight playoff trips (first time since 83-88), finished .500+ in four consecutive campaigns (first time since 72-79), and had three players — Gilbert Arenas, Antawn Jamison and Caron Butler — make their first career All-Star appearances; with seven total All-Star bids in the last four years (Arenas 3x, Butler 2x, Jamison 2x).

SOUTHEAST BEASTS: While the Orlando Magic became the first team other than the Miami Heat to ever win the Southeast Division, Washington remained as the only team to ever finish second. For the fourth consecutive season since the inception of the current divisional format, the Wizards were the Southeast's runner-up. Washington made a bid to become the first Southeast team ever – and just the second NBA team since 2004-05 – to finish with a perfect road record in divisional play, but after falling in Orlando in the final game of the regular season, the Wizards finished with a 7-1 record on the road in their division.

INJURY REPORT: As usual, Washington dealt with its share of injuries in 2007-08. Starting in Training Camp, the Wizards found out that Etan Thomas would be lost for what turned out to be the entire regular season, as Thomas underwent heart surgery. Gilbert Arenas appeared in the first eight games of the season, but soon thereafter underwent knee surgery and missed the next 66 games (69 games in all). Caron Butler (24 games missed), Antonio Daniels (11), Antawn Jamison (2), Brendan Haywood (2), Nick Young (2) and Oleksiy Pecherov (33) also missed time for Washington, as the Wizards lost 225 player/games due to injury among seven players.

SELLING OUT: Once again, the Verizon Center faithful came out in droves to support their Wizards in 2007-08. In a season that saw the Wizards win 25 of their 41 regular season home games, Washington played in front of a sold-out Verizon Center crowd of 20,173 in 22 games. In all, 736,461 fans crossed through the turnstiles for an average of 17,962 fans per game.

EDDIE'S ACCOLADES: In what was described by many in-the-know scribes as Eddie Jordan's finest season, Washington's floor boss piled up honor after honor as the 2007-08 season wore on. Specifically, Jordan became Washington's first Head Coach to helm four consecutive playoff teams since Dick Motta from 1976-80...Jordan's Wizards became the third Washington team ever to win the season-series against the NBA's top regular season team (3-1 vs. the 66-16 Boston Celtics)...

For the third time in four seasons, two of Jordan's players (Caron Butler, Antawn Jamison) made the All-Star team...After starting the season 0-5, Jordan's Wizards became just the 13th team in NBA history to rally from a 0-5 start to make the playoffs...and with 195 wins and counting as Head Coach of the Wizards, Jordan passed Dick Motta (185) for third place on Washington's win list.

THREE-POINT BARRAGE: With DeShawn Stevenson, Roger Mason Jr. and Antawn Jamison leading the way, Washington hit a franchise record 575 three-point field goals in 2007-08. Stevenson (158), Mason (130) and Jamison (120) also became the first trio in Washington history to connect on at least 100 three-pointers apiece in a single season.

CAPTAIN CONSISTENT: With a career-high 44 double-doubles to his credit in 2007-08, Wizards captain Antawn Jamison enjoyed what might have been his finest professional season. In his 10th season out of North Carolina, Jamison averaged 21.4 points and a career-high 10.2 rebounds per game, paving his way to New Orleans for his second career All-Star appearance. Jamison's 44 double-doubles ranked eighth in the NBA in 2007-08, but among Eastern Conference players, only Orlando's All-Star center Dwight Howard had more double-doubles than Jamison. In his first ever 20-and-10 season, Jamison's 21.4 ppg average ranked 17th in the NBA, while his 10.2 rpg was good for 10th in the league. Among all NBA players, only Dwight Howard, Utah's Carlos Boozer, Houston's Yao Ming and Minnesota's Al Jefferson joined Jamison with averages of 20+ points and 10+ rebounds per game.

CARON'S CAREER YEAR: As one of just four NBA players (with LeBron James, Kobe Bryant and Vince Carter) to average at least 20 points, six rebounds and four assists per game in 2007-08, Caron Butler established himself among the game's elite performers. However, as the only player in the league to average 20-6-4 plus two steals per game, Butler accomplished something that hadn't been done in years. As a back-to-back All-Star in 2008, Butler became the first player in the NBA since LeBron James and Larry Hughes in 2004-05 to average at least 20 points, six rebounds, four assists and two steals per game. He also set a new franchise record for consecutive free throws made by connecting on 73 consecutive foul shots in a stretch from December 28 – February 3. Butler set new career-best marks in most statistical categories in 2006-07, but topped many of those personal career bests in 2007-08.

ARENAS NOTE: After a 2006-07 campaign in which Agent Zero conducted an all-out assault on the NBA and Wizards' record books, the only thing that proved to be able to slow Arenas was a knee injury in 2007-08. Arenas started Washington's first eight games of the season, but after undergoing knee surgery just before Thanksgiving, he missed the next 66 games. Arenas returned to action on April 2 vs. Milwaukee, and appeared in five games in April as a reserve. In those five games, Arenas averaged 14.6 points, 3.8 assists and 3.2 rebounds in just 21.8 minutes per game.

STEVENSON'S STORY: Wizards guard DeShawn Stevenson played six full NBA seasons before joining the Wizards prior to the 2006-07 campaign, and in those six seasons, Stevenson made a grand total of 53 three-pointers in 202 attempts (.262). However, upon joining the Wizards in 2006-07, Stevenson hit 74-of-183 (.404) three-point attempts in a career-best season from behind the arc. Yet after his career-best season in 06-07, Stevenson improved his range again in 2007-08, and led the Wizards in three-point field goals made. As the only Wizards player to start every game in 07-08, Stevenson extended his streak of consecutive games started to 250; second only to Detroit's Tayshaun Prince for the longest active streak of games started. Among other highlights for Stevenson in 2007-08, the eighth-year guard averaged a career-high 3.1 assists per game, and re-wrote many of his single game career-highs, including a career-best 33-point effort in New Orleans on February 25.

WHAT'S HAPPENING WITH HAYWOOD: In his seventh season out of the University of North Carolina, Wizards center Brendan Haywood joined the ranks of the Wizards that enjoyed career years in 2007-08. Haywood's previous career-best year came in 2004-05, but the 28 year-old changed that in 07-08. While averaging career-high marks in several categories, Haywood also enjoyed some of the best games of his professional career. Haywood scored a career-high 25 points in Chicago on April 5, grabbed a career-high 16 rebounds vs. Orlando on November 3, and recorded a career-best five assists vs. Charlotte on February 23. Haywood also finished 10th in the NBA with 1.68 blocks per game in 2007-08.

DANIELS GOT OFF TO A GOOD START: Inserted into the starting line-up in the place of Gilbert Arenas for the majority of the 2007-08 season, Antonio Daniels thrived in his new role. By averaging a career-high 4.8 assists per game overall (5.1 assists per game as a starter), the 11-year veteran led Washington to a 37-26 record in his career-high 63 starts. In 11 games without Daniels in the line-up, Washington was just 3-8. AD also averaged a career-high 2.9 rebounds per game, and his .459 field goal percentage was his best since the 2003-04 season. As far as his assist-to-turnover ratio was concerned – a category in which he has led the NBA twice previously – Daniels registered yet another Top Five finish, ranking 5th in the NBA with a 3.73:1 assist to turnover ratio.

WHEN SONGAILA STARTED: Wizards forward Darius Songaila started 13 games for the Wizards in 2007-08 – twice for Antawn Jamison, once for Brendan Haywood, and 10 times for Caron Butler – and helped steer the Wizards to a 9-4 record in his starts. Among all Wizards that started at least 10 games, Songaila's .692 winning percentage edged Antonio Daniels' 37-26 (.587) mark for the best mark as a starter. Having averaged 6.2 points, 3.4 rebounds and 1.7 assists overall, Songaila's numbers jumped to 10.5 points, 6.1 rebounds and 3.7 assists per game as a starter.

DRAY'S DAYS: Showing the promise of a 21-year old, Andray Blatche wowed teammates and opponents alike at times with his play in 2007-08. In a regular season capped off by a 20-point, 11-rebound effort – his first career 20-and-10 game – Blatche recorded nine double-doubles. His single game highlights included a career-high five assist effort vs. ORL (3/5), a career-high 15 rebound night vs. SA (2/6), a career-high tying five block performance at ATL (1/11), and a career-best 26 point outing vs. Philadelphia on November 20.

ROOKIE REPORT: Washington's rookie trio of Nick Young, Dominic McGuire and Oleksiy Pecherov saw many of the trials and tribulations associated with being rookies in the NBA in 2007-08, and all emerged stronger for it. Young averaged 7.5 points and 1.5 rebounds in just 15.4 minutes per game, and enjoyed the highlight of his 'young' career with a career-high 27-point effort against the Lakers in his hometown of LA on March 30. McGuire finished with averages of 1.3 points and 2.0 rebounds in 9.9 minutes per game, and recorded three double-digit rebounding games, including a career-high 12-rebound effort on February 13 at the Clippers. Pecherov averaged 3.6 points and 1.9 rebounds in 9.1 minutes per game as a rookie, and ended the regular season in Orlando on April 16 with his first career double-double.

WIZARDS RETIRED NUMBERS

41 WES UNSELD

As a player, Wes Unseld seemed to have been chiseled from a block of granite, with a stoic demeanor and an iron resolve to win. A 6-7 bull of a center, he forged his reputation on relentless rebounding, bone-jarring picks, and laser-beam outlet passes. He did all the unspectacular things that led to glamorous victories. He was the league's MVP and Rookie of the Year in 1968-69 and a five-time NBA All-Star who captained the Baltimore and Washington Bullets to four NBA Finals appearances in the 1970s and to a championship in 1977-78. Unseld was intelligent on and off the court, and over the course of his career he came to personify the virtues of hard work, dedication, and courage. After retiring in 1980 he moved into a front office position with the Bullets, then coached the team for seven seasons in the late 1980s and early 1990s before becoming the team's General Manager before taking a leave of absence in May 2003. During his 13-year NBA career, all with the Bullets, Unseld piled up many accomplishments. He ranked seventh on the league's all-time rebounding list and was one of a handful of players to have tallied at least 10,000 points and 10,000 rebounds for a career. He played 984 games for the Bullets, the most of any player in franchise history. His TOTal of 13,769 boards (14.0 rpg) currently tops the franchise career list, and his 3,822 assists also is a Bullets record. After a standout career at Louisville, Unseld was the second overall selection in the 1968 NBA Draft by the Bullets following the selection of future teammate Elvin Hayes by the Rockets. The Bullets had never had a winning season up to that point of Unseld's arrival. With Unseld the team ran off 10 winning campaigns and made 12 consecutive playoff appearances. Unseld played each of his 13 seasons with the Bullets and was elected to the Naismith Memorial Basketball Hall of Fame in 1988. In 1996, he was named to the NBA 50th Anniversary All-Time Team.

11 ELVIN HAYES

One of the most talented power forwards ever to play the game, Elvin Hayes used his trademark turnaround jumper and aggressive defense to win a secure place in the NBA record books. Fifth on the all-time list in games (1,303) and third in minutes played (50,000), he missed only nine contests in his 16 years in the league, a tribute to his durability and conditioning. An All-Star for each of his first 12 seasons, he scored more points (27,313) than any other player in NBA history except for Kareem Abdul Jabbar, Karl Malone, Michael Jordan, Wilt Chamberlain and Moses Malone. He also ranks fourth on the league's all-time rebounding list with 16,279 boards. Hayes is the franchise leader in points scored with 15,551 and averaged 21.3 points and 12.7 rebounds in his nine seasons with the Bullets that included a world championship in 1978. Hayes attended the University of Houston where he had a standout career highlighted by outscoring Lew Alcindor 39-15 in leading Houston to snap UCLA's 47-game winning streak. Hayes was the first overall pick by the San Diego Rockets in the 1968 NBA Draft. Following four seasons with the Rockets, Hayes was acquired by the Baltimore Bullets in exchange for Jack Marin and future considerations on April 12, 1972. With the Bullets, Hayes moved to the power forward position and teamed with Wes Unseld to form one of the most formidable frontcourts in NBA history. Hayes led Washington to a franchise record 60 wins during the 1974-75 season while being named First Team All-NBA. During Washington's championship run in 1978, Hayes averaged a team-high 21.2 points per game. After a standout career in Washington, Hayes finished his 16-year career with the Houston Rockets. Hayes was inducted into the Naismith Memorial Basketball Hall of Fame in 1990 and his #11 jersey is one of only three numbers retired by the Washington Wizards.

25 GUS JOHNSON

Gus Johnson, one of only three players in franchise history to have his jersey retired, was one of 21 finalists named by the North American Screening Committee for election into the Naismith Memorial Basketball Hall of Fame's Class of 2003. Johnson, a native of Akron, Ohio was a devastating force at the power forward position. Johnson's ability to score, pass, and rebound made the Baltimore Bullets a perennial title contender from the mid 1960s to the early 1970's. Johnson, who entered the league following one year at the University of Idaho in 1963, spent nine of his 11 pro seasons with the Bullets. Nicknamed "Honeycomb" for his sweet play, Johnson was a four-time All-NBA Second Team selection (1965, '66, '70, '71), a two-time All-Defensive First Team selection (1970, '71), and was a member of the 1964 NBA All-Rookie team. With Johnson on the roster, the Bullets reached the playoffs six times and advanced to the NBA finals in 1970-71 (4-0 loss to Milwaukee). Statistically, Johnson averaged a double-double (17.1 ppg and 12.7 rpg) in 581 career NBA games. The Washington Bullets retired his jersey number 25 in 1986. On April 29, 1987, Johnson passed away after being diagnosed with an inoperable brain tumor.

10 EARL MONROE

Before the arrival of "Magic" Johnson, there was another "Magic" – "Black Magic" – also known as "Earl the Pearl." He was Earl Monroe, a dazzling playmaker and one-on-one virtuoso who dazzled both spectators and opponents alike with his flashy moves and drives to the hoop. Monroe revolutionized the game with his flamboyant moves, and is widely credited with popularizing the spin move. Some said that watching him play was like listening to jazz; much like the music, Monroe's moves were like improvisations, many of which took off in mid-flight and changed course without notice. He was chosen with the second pick in the 1967 NBA draft by the Baltimore Bullets, and immediately made his presence known. He scored a then-franchise record 56 points in a game against the Los Angeles Lakers and was awarded the NBA Rookie of the Year Award after averaging 24.3 points for the season. During his Bullets career, Monroe solidified himself as not only a marquee player but the leader of a perennial championship contender. In 1968-69 he was named to the All-NBA First Team and coupled with Rookie of the Year Wes Unseld to create a devastating fast break not seen before in the NBA. The following season he led the Baltimore Bullets to their first ever NBA World Championship Series. "The Pearl" ended his Bullets career in 1971 as one of the franchise's most storied players, and he appears frequently in the franchise record books. Monroe scored 7,775 points in 328 games as a Bullet, and stands third in franchise history in scoring average (23.7). The prolific scorer notched over 40 points on nine different occasions for the Bullets and led Baltimore in scoring and assists four consecutive years (1967-71). He scored over 700 playoff points in a Bullets uniform, and ranks second in playoff scoring average with 24.3 points per game. Monroe retired from the game of basketball in 1980 as one of the greatest and most innovative players in its history. During his 13-year career he had amassed 17,454 points in 926 games. A four time All-Star, Monroe was inducted into the NBA Hall of Fame in 1990. In 1996, the NBA announced Monroe as a member of its 50th Anniversary All-Time Team honoring the top 50 players in league history. "The Pearl" helped herald a new era of basketball, a more exciting game that showcased dazzling individual skills within a team context and on December 10, 2007 Earl Monroe's #10 jersey became only the fourth number retired by the Washington Wizards. 1977-78 CHAMPIONSHIP SEASON

Led by Wes Unseld and Elvin Hayes, the Washington Bullets captured the franchise's only world championship during the 1977-78 season under new head coach Dick Motta. The Bullets had established themselves as one of the most formidable teams in the 1970's and made two NBA Finals appearances only to lose to Milwaukee in 1971 and to Golden State in 1975, after a season in which the team posted a franchise record 60 victories. Washington finished the 1977-78 season with a 44-38 record and defeated Atlanta and San Antonio in the Eastern Conference Playoffs before upsetting Philadelphia 4-2 for a spot in the NBA Finals versus the Seattle SuperSonics. Seattle erased a 19-point lead at home in Game 1 and took a 1-0 series lead with a 106-102 victory. The series then shifted to the Capital Centre for Game 2 where Bobby Dandridge scored 34 points and Hayes added 25 points as Washington even the series with a 106-98 win. Seattle held off a late Washington rally for a 93-92 win at the Capital Centre in Game 3 as the series shifted to the Kingdome for Game 4. In need of a win, Washington trailed by 15 points late in third quarter but rallied behind Dandridge and Unseld to force overtime where Charles Johnson nailed three field goals as Washington evened the series with a 120-116 overtime win. The series then shifted to the Seattle Coliseum for Game 5, and in their home arena, the Sonics posted a 98-94 win to take a 3-2 series lead. Facing elimination, Washington exploded for 70 points in the second half of Game 6 and increased a 12-point first half lead into a 117-82 victory. The series then returned to Seattle for the seventh and deciding game where Washington played strong defense in forcing the Sonics backcourt of Gus Williams and Dennis Johnson into 4-26 shooting in building an 11-point fourth quarter lead. Seattle fought back in the closing minutes and cut the lead to four with a minute and a half to play. Mitch Kupchak then converted a big three point play but Seattle rallied to cut the lead to 101-99 on a Paul Silas tip-in. Seattle then fouled Unseld, who hit both of his free throws as Washington held on for a 105-99 victory and the franchise's first world championship. The title was the first for the City of Washington, D.C. since the Redskins won the NFL title in 1942. During the playoff run and finals, Motta reminded the media and fans that each series wasn't over until "the fat lady sings," a phrase that is widely associated with 1978 NBA Champion Washington Bullets.

REACH ONE, TEACH ONE

READ TO ACHIEVE

The NBA's year-round, league-wide initiative, Read to Achieve, promotes the values of reading and online literacy and encourages families and adults to read regularly with children. Throughout the year, the Wizards host reading timeouts at local schools, libraries or at Verizon Center to help promote the importance of literacy. Wizards' players take time-out to read to area youth to help engage their imagination and foster a life-long love of reading and learning.

EVERYBODY WINS

Once a week, Wizards' staff members meet with students at Walker-Jones Elementary School to share conversation and good books. Everybody Wins is a mentoring program devoted to promoting children's literacy and a love of learning through shared reading and experiences with adults. This program is conducted in over 30 public elementary schools and impacts more than 5,000 children in at-risk communities in the Washington-Metropolitan area.

AND WE REMEMBER...BLACK HISTORY MONTH

In the month of February, the Washington Wizards select a group of students from a local school to participate in the Black History Month Trip. The Wizards take the students on the road for an away game; prior to that night's game the students visit various historical sites significant to the African American history of that city. After visiting, touring, and learning about the rich African American history and culture of the city the students head to the arena to meet with Washington Wizards coaches and players in a pre-game meet and greet. Last season, the Wizards partnered with Amtrak and traveled to Philadelphia, visited the African American Museum, participated in a music making workshop, took a tour of Mother Bethel AME Church and watched the Wizards take on the Philadelphia 76ers.

THE GIFT TO ASSIST

A SALUTE TO OUR HEROES

In partnership with Northrop Grumman, the Washington Wizards worked with the USO of Metropolitan Washington and provided free tickets for every home game for soldiers recovering from injuries at the Walter Reed Medical Center and the Bethesda Naval Center. Each night soldiers were recognized during the game and were visited by former Wizards players and the Wizards Dance Team.

WIZARDS TURKEY GIVEAWAY

The Wizards have partnered with Heaven's Grocery Store for the past 10 years to host an annual turkey basket giveaway each November. Four hundred baskets are filled with turkeys and items to compliment a Thanksgiving Day meal, such as canned vegetables, bread, stuffing and desserts. Baskets are handed out to D.C. area families in need. Each season, Wizards players volunteer to sponsor this event and help to pass out each basket.

ABE'S TABLE

In their continuing effort to provide food for those in-need, Mr. and Mrs. Pollin, along with Chevy Chase Bank have partnered with the Perry School to provide breakfast and dinner for students who attend the Perry Center for their pre-school and after school programs. In addition, the program continues during the summer for their camps and other activities. The Perry School Community Services Center, Inc. was created in 1991 to address issues of chronic poverty in the North Capitol St. area of Washington, DC. The non-profit center is located in the historic Perry School and provides services in youth development, economic empowerment and social services. In addition to the Pollin's daily efforts with the Perry School, the Wizards host an annual Abe's Table holiday event each November. Wizards' players, coaches and staff serve a hot Thanksgiving luncheon to over 100 senior citizens from the District.

POLLIN AWARD

Named after Irene and Abe Pollin, Chairpersons for the Washington Wizards and Verizon Center, the Pollin's vision is matched solely by their willingness to help improve the quality of life in this community and around the world. The Pollin Award sponsored by Verizon was created to honor those individuals who show an outstanding dedication to their community. The Washington Wizards teamed up with the non profit organization Positive Coaching Alliance (PCA) to honor the Washington DC Metropolitan coaches. PCA's mission is to "transform youth sports so sports can transform youth". Since 2001, PCA has operated in the Washington, DC area, impacting tens of thousands of local youths. Each award recipient receives two (2) complimentary tickets to a designated Wizards game. The winner is recognized in game and receives the award on court.

THE WIZARDS 12 DAYS OF HOLIDAY CHEER

To celebrate with their community, the Wizards will designate 12 days of holiday giving throughout the month of December. The Wizards December ritual of Family to Family, where needy families are treated to a visit by Wizards bearing gifts, will be just one part of the 12 Days of Holiday Cheer. In addition, a number of local organizations will be surprised with Wizards tickets, bikes, movies, meals and much more.

CAREFIRST COMMUNITY THREES

For each Wizards' three-pointer, CareFirst BlueCross BlueShield pledged $100 to the Unity Health Care, a network of medical sites serving the District's homeless and uninsured, as part of the insurer's "Community Threes" program. This past season the Wizards scored $50,000 for Carefirst Community Threes.

Interested groups are encouraged to send a letter of request on their company letterhead to the Wizards Community Relations Department. The Community Relations Department contacts groups directly when tickets become available.

AUCTION/DONATION PROGRAM
Because of the overwhelming number of requests for donations received each season, Washington Sports and Entertainment created the Community Auction/Donation program. Organizations are asked to send a letter of request to the Wizards Community Relations Department on their organization letterhead. Organizations then receive a donation form for tickets to a specified Wizards game. These tickets can be used as raffle items, door prizes, or silent auction items. The Community Relations Department makes autographed Wizards balls available for a donation of $100. This fee is donated to Wizards Care.

TELEVISION BROADCASTERS

Steve Buckhantz Television Play-By-Play Announcer

Popular Washington, DC sportscaster Steve Buckhantz begins his 12th season as the television play-by-play voice of the Wizards on Comcast SportsNet. With 34 years of broadcasting experience, including 24 in the Nation's Capital, he is one of the longest tenured sportscasters in the Metropolitan area.

From "Dagger" to "Backbreaker" to "Not Possible!" Buckhantz' dramatic calls have crept into DC's sports lexicon and are now heard regularly on sports highlight shows around the country. A four-time Emmy award winner, Buckhantz' most recent honor was received this past summer for his Wizards play-by-play work on Comcast SportsNet. He was bestowed a similar award in 2002, and also earned Emmy's for his work at WTTG-TV in DC as well as WSB-TV in Atlanta, GA.

Buckhantz is a native of Washington, DC, born in the District and raised in nearby Arlington, VA. He attended Washington-Lee High School, and his education continued at James Madison University in Harrisonburg, VA where he graduated with a Bachelor of Science degree in communication arts. In 1995, Buckhantz was honored with JMU's Distinguished Alumni Award.

Buckhantz made the transition into television at ABC affiliate WHSV-TV in Harrisonburg, where he anchored the 11pm sports and weather broadcasts as an intern. His career then took him to Chattanooga, TN, Nashville, TN and Atlanta, GA, before returning to his hometown and Fox owned WTTG-TV in 1984, where he was the Sports Director and lead sports anchor for nearly 14 years. Buckhantz' play-by-play work also includes the "NFL on Fox", and in 1994 was part of that networks' inaugural season televising professional football. From 1991-97 Buckhantz was the radio play-by-play voice of the US Naval Academy Football Team.

For the past 13 years Buckhantz has been the spokesman for the Steve Buckhantz/St. Jude Celebrity Golf Tournament, which to date has raised over 2.5 million dollars to benefit research at the children's hospital in Memphis, TN. He also serves as the honorary chair for the sixth annual Cardinal Bank Charity Classic benefiting Inova Kellar center, which helps children, adolescents, adults and families in the Washington, DC metropolitan area.

Phil Chenier Television Analyst

The 2008-09 NBA campaign marks Phil Chenier's 24th consecutive season providing television color commentary for the Washington Wizards organization. Seated alongside play-by-play man Steve Buckhantz, Chenier has been further ingrained in the consciousness of Washington area sports fans after he starred for the Bullets for nine seasons during his playing days in the NBA.

An All-Star performer for the Bullets in 1974, 1975 and 1977, Chenier still holds the franchise record for most points in a non-overtime game (53), and he ranks among the all-time franchise leaders in field goals made (4th), points (6th), minutes played (6th) and games played (8th). He averaged at least 20 points per game for five consecutive seasons (1972-77) and was named to the All-NBA second team in 1974-75, when he finished eighth in MVP voting. After 10 professional seasons, Chenier retired in 1981 with 9,931 career points and a 17.2 ppg scoring average.

In the NBA off-season, Chenier shares his basketball expertise at his youth basketball camp, which is co-directed by award-winning basketball writer David DuPree. Chenier lives in Columbia, MD, and has three children, April, Philip Lawrence and Adelle, and a baby granddaughter, Ana L. Fletcher.

RADIO BROADCASTERS

Dave Johnson Radio Play-By-Play Announcer

The 2008-09 season marks Dave Johnson's 12th consecutive campaign as the voice of the Wizards on the Wizards Radio Network. Wizards fans also know Johnson for his contributions to the television show "Wizards Magazine", and to WashingtonWizards.com where he hosts a live blog (blogcast) during games. Johnson's ties to the Washington DC sports community are strengthened by his efforts as the sports director and morning sports anchor for WTOP radio (103.5 FM), where he just won an Edward R. Murrow award for best writing.

Johnson's ubiquitous presence in the sports community is also due in part to his role as the television play-by-play voice of Major League Soccer's DC United on Comcast SportsNet, and to an extensive history with televised soccer that includes appearances on ESPN and FOX Soccer Channel. Johnson also served as the play-by-play voice for the 2006 FIFA World Cup on XM radio, for whom he called over 20 matches, including the World Cup final in Berlin.

Among Johnson's other career highlights is an Emmy Award for his work as the host of the NHL's Washington Capitals "Face Off" television show, countless anchored telecasts both on Comcast SportsNet and FOX 5, an extensive play-by-play resume of college football, college basketball and lacrosse, and in the summer of 2006, Johnson served as a fill-in on Washington Nationals radio broadcasts.

A graduate of Towson University, Dave and his wife, Diane, live in Annapolis, MD with their son, Pierce.

Glenn Consor Radio Color Analyst

The 2008-09 season marks Glenn Consor's second season as the color analyst and post-game call-in show host on the Washington Wizards Radio Network. Alongside 12-year play-by-play veteran Dave Johnson, Consor brings almost two decades of experience covering the Wizards to the booth.

After 17 years covering the Wizards for various media outlets, most recently for Comcast SportsNet as an analyst on the network's live postgame show, Consor added a new perspective of watching the Wizards to his resume during the 2007-08 season. Previously, from 1990-95 Consor was a scout for the Wizards franchise and Indiana Pacers.

In addition to his work with the Wizards, Consor has served as a basketball analyst for NBA-TV, Home Team Sports, ESPN's regional college basketball broadcasts, Sports Talk 980, and Westwood One's coverage of the NCAA Tournament.

In his playing days, Consor started for four years for Rick Pitino at Boston University, before playing professionally in Israel. Originally from Flushing Queens, New York, Consor currently resides in Rockville, Maryland with his wife, Mara, and two sons, Kenny (17) and Jonny (14).
